

I'm asking the FCC to let power lines remain just that and leave broadband Internet to the cable television and telephone companies whose technologies best support it. Studies show that there is too much interference from this technology. Please do not allow the power companies to implement Access BPL in the United States.